National and Local Meat Business

The meat business of the country is conducted by various agencies—

By small slaughter-houses in villages—

By local Abattoirs or small Packing Houses in towns—

both

Using only a part of the local live stock supply and Furnishing only a part of the local demand for meat.

These slaughtering and distributing agencies fill a well defined but necessarily restricted place in the distribution of the products of live stock.

But only packers like Swift & Company, organized on a national scale, are able to undertake the service that is more vitally important, involving

An Obligation to the Producer

To purchase for spot cash all the live stock the producer may send to market for slaughter.

An Obligation to the Consumer

To make available to every consumer, everywhere, in season and out, the full supply and variety of meat products, of the highest standard that the market affords.

BRITISH TOMMIES GIVEN KNIVES TO USE FOR VARIETY OF PURPOSES

BEHIND THE BRITISH LINES IN FRANCE, May 13.—(Correspondence of the Associated Press)—Every soldier in the British army in France is provided by the government, as part of his overseas kit, with a jack-knife.

The military jack-knife is built for service. It has only three parts—a big blade of Sheffield steel, a can-opener, and a "marlin-spike." The whole thing clasps into a solid steel or bone handle four inches long, which is provided with a ring so that it can be hung to the belt.

The can-opener is an indispensable part of the provision for a soldier's well-being at the front. Several important items of his daily menu are supplied to him in sealed cans.

The Sheffield blade has numerous uses too obvious to need mention, but it is noticeable that Tommy Atkins frequently uses it for purposes of eating in preference to the table knife in his kit.

The knife-blade is also used constantly as a wood-cutter. In the trenches the lighting of a brazier is frequently a difficult operation owing to the vital necessity of avoiding smoke. The Germans have a strong antipathy to smoke, and the sight of it rising from the British trenches arouses in them disturbing evidences of envy, hatred, malice and uncharitableness. It is well, therefore, to avoid smoke. So the wood for the brazier must be split up into thin sticks and shavings, and for this purpose the official jack-knife is the ideal instrument.

When the soldier is withdrawn from the trenches it is his first duty to make himself and his belongings clean and presentable for inspection. Tommy hangs his coat on a peg and "shaves" it with the knife blade.

The marlin-spike attachment is useful for prying open wooden boxes, for cleaning stones and mud out of the horses' hoofs, for adjusting belts and harness. Braziers for the trenches are made from biscuit tins punched full of holes to admit a draught.

The Germans were, for a long time, greatly puzzled by the marlin-spike attachment which they found on every British prisoner's jack-knife. They made great capital out of a story that it was used to gouge out the eyes of German wounded. In the official report of the British prisoners of war commission, several instances of this tale are recorded.

BALL PLAYER ENLISTS

(By Associated Press) MINNEAPOLIS, June 12.—"Dolly" Gray, catcher with the Minneapolis club of the American association, expects to leave the club within the next few weeks to join the marine corps. Gray is in the next draft call, but probably would not have to go until August. He played football and baseball at Notre Dame and made a splendid record in the Texas league last season.

SERBS ON THE WAY TO SALONICA

bearing the heroes of Serbia gained momentum and rolled down the gulch on the first leg of the voyage to Berlin. The shrill notes of the West End, the piercing shriek of the Jim Butler, the profound basso of the veteran Mizpah, the subdued notes of the Midway, the weird scream of the MacNamara, the resonant blare of the Extension, the distant echo of the far off Belmont and half a score minor mines sent the boys off with a hurrah, as their countrymen and associates on the hillside dumps raised their hats reverently in honor of the occasion.

The train had hardly gathered headway before the sunlight broke over the scene and the vast desert was bathed in glory as a happy omen. There was no speechmaking at the depot as all the preliminaries

SWIMMING POOL GROWING POPULAR

The warm weather has brought out crowds to the swimming pool which is filled every afternoon with hundreds of shrieking boys cooling off in the welcome water. The attendance of grown-ups is steadily increasing and last Sunday over eighty paid admissions were reported. The management has arranged with Mr. Will Lyons, in charge, to furnish bathing suits at a trifling rental for those not having any, so there need not be any hesitation in visiting the pool.

Some complaint has been heard of the deficient dressing facilities, so the management has decided to permit any one wishing to add private dressing rooms to do so at their own expense.

LONE ENGLISH BOY TAKES TWO CAPTIVES

(By Associated Press) LONDON, June 12.—Two Germans who had escaped from a prison camp near London were walking along a road when they encountered a boy with a shotgun. From a newspaper picture he recognized them as fugitive enemies and, although his gun wasn't loaded, he forced the two to walk ahead of him to the nearest police station. The boy's name is Thomas Gibson. He is 17 years old and small for his age.

Archaeology at Rome. If one stops to think of it one wonders whether, even at a time when the world seems intent only on war, the astronomer in his watch tower of the skies ever allows his thoughts even temporarily to be drawn away from the wonders of the universe that it is his privilege nightly to behold. However it may be with the astronomer, recently reports of excavations at Rome show that the archaeologist has not been diverted from his loved pursuit and that to him "the grandeur that was Rome" still fills his imagination and dreams.

As shown in a recent letter in the London Times by Eugene Strong, assistant director, faculty of archaeology, history and letters, in the British school at Rome, archaeological research has been going steadily on in Rome even during the great war, although the work done has been in following up excavations already begun rather than making fresh excavations.

had been dispatched last evening at the luncheon given in honor of the departing volunteers, but Milton Detch, briefly interpreted the sentiment of Captain Stepan Milutinovich, who does not speak English although conversant with French and Russian. He thanked the people of Tonopah for their kindness and for the courtesy lavished upon him as the representative of Serbia and regretted that he would have to go elsewhere in the line of duty in procuring more men of his race.

The parade for escort duty formed at the junction of Main street and Florence avenue with the Musicians' Union band and drum corps in the lead. The allied flags were grouped behind the band followed by the Women's Relief Corps and Red Cross ladies, led by Ed Harma, the G. A. R. veteran, proudly bearing his new silk flag presented by the ladies of the department of California and Nevada. The Nye county service flag also was displayed in the line. Then came the Boy Scouts, the Home Guard, the Campfire Girls, and citizens representing every line of business who marched to the depot where the partings were said. A feature of the occasion was the number of mothers, wives and daughters from the Serbian colony, all of whom gave vent to their feelings in the most demonstrative manner, urging the boys to do their duty and not to pause until they had wrested their fatherland from the tyrant hand of the Hun.

A committee from Tonopah Lodge B. P. O. E. No. 1062 presented each man with a comfort kit from the Junior Red Cross and a collection was taken up and the boys given a handsome sum for tobacco money. The occasion will rank as one of the most memorable in local history and the general response of the community to the call of the Nye County Council of Defense will serve to cement the best of feeling between all races engaged in the industrial development of Tonopah.
